Prof. Zhidas Daskalovski

Dear Readers,

In 2014 we marked the 20th anniversary of the death of the founder of the science of criminalistics, professor Vladimir Vodinelić, PhD. On that occasion, at the initiative of and in coordination with prof. Metodija Angeleski, PhD, from FON University, one of the successors of professor Vodinelić, we submitted a proposal for organizing a conference for criminalists – theoreticians and practitioners. The conference was entitled “Criminalistic Education, Situation and Perspectives – 20 Years after Vodinelić”.

Vladimir Vodinelić, PhD, (1918-1994) was a professor at the Faculty of Security since its establishment as the only higher education institution in former Socialist Federative Republic of Yugoslavia. With his presence, as well as his educational and creative work, professor Vodinelić contributed to the renown of the institution which admitted students from all republics and provinces of former Yugoslavia. His entire work is of particular importance and inspiration to all of us studying criminalistic theory and practice. With the presence of the distinguished professor, the faculty profiled itself as one of the most competent institutions as far as education of security forces members is concerned. The graduates of the Faculty of Security enjoyed particular respect, with a guaranteed status in the state security system. The faculty enjoyed and still enjoys authority and we hope that it will continue its work in the future, keeping its central and respected position in our country and the wider region as regards studying criminalistics, security, police, social, legal, criminological sciences, as well as the areas of private security, thanks to a great number of professors who invested themselves in building its future, including professor Vodinelić.

Through the organization of this event we shall commit ourselves to building the culture of celebrating important events and persons as the basis for confirming the identity of the institution. We expected attendance of a significant number of admirers of the life and work of prof. Vodinelić, scientific workers, researchers and practitioners in the field of criminalistics and related scientific disciplines. Eventually, a total of 58 papers by prominent authors were submitted to the conference.

The conference was held on 24-25 October 2014 at the Faculty of Security in Skopje.

The scientific conference was prepared and organized by the following teaching staff from the Department of Criminalistic Sciences, and prof. Metodija Angeleski, PhD:

- full professor Borče Murgoski, PhD
- associate professor Zlate Dimovski, PhD
- associate professor Marina Mališ Sazdovska, PhD
- associate professor Marjan Nikolovski, PhD
- associate professor Svetlana Nikoloska, PhD
- assistant professor Dragana Batić, PhD
- assistant professor Ljupčo Todorovski, PhD
- assistant professor Katerina Krstevska
- assistant professor Nikola Dujovski
- teaching assistant Ice Ilijevski, PhD.
